Bishop's Message

Hi Ward Family,

I get the sense we are getting closer to returning to normal sabbath day services, which is great news. This week the First Presidency has provided a two phased approach in returning to sacrament meeting. Though it will require effort by each of us to ensure safe social distancing. When the bishopric receives instruction from the Area and Stake presidencies we will keep everyone informed on how and when we can return. Currently, the church's first phase can only be implemented when the WA government approves socialising in groups up to 100, estimated for late June.

In Matthew 18:3 the lord has asked us to "...become as little children...", and promises us the kingdom of heaven if we do. With that kind of reward it might just be worthwhile understanding how we do that. He goes on to say in verse 4, "...humble yourself as a child..." The key word here is humble. So what are childlike attributes? We only need to turn to a child to learn. Here are a few that come to mind when I look at my granddaughter Mya. Meek, submissive, quick to love, quick to forgive, faithful, quick to learn, always smiling, dutiful, humble, honest, innocent, questions everything and asks for help when needed. We have to bear in mind that for adults we came to this earth already possessing these attributes and with the weight of the world on our shoulders we have to work hard to keep them.

May we all strive to become as a child, each day, love our children for who they are and stay focused on the things that are important.

Sincerely,
Bishop Spark

They are again able to visit with members, and they are so happy about it after 6 weeks of real lock down. They are not allowed to go tracking, and are both newly together, so we encourage you to give them a call and see how you can help them do the work of the Lord, or just introduce yourself. Please give them a call on 0410 434 756 (They have no car and need picking up)

Relief Society Sister Spotlight. What I learned.

Hello from Alex McIlwaine

1. What have you learnt from come follow me this year ?

This week I learnt from a CFM podcast that Alma (younger) was likely a mature man (in his late 50's at least) when he had his conversion experience. (They pointed this out by looking at the timeline that it was only a few years later that his father Alma died at 82yrs..) Interesting and his parents no doubt were praying for him for a really long time before they saw him change.

2. What have you liked the most about quarantine ?

Slow time and being tucked away with my little crew.

3. What hobby would you like to get into?

Umm I feel like I'm interested in everything - but particularly atm sewing and beekeeping..

4. What is your ideal way to spend a weekend?

Doing a job around the house then going outdoors and having fun together (bikeriding, bushwalking , farm.. anything :)

5. What are some small things that make your day better.

Scripture study always makes my day better. I hope that doesn't sound too geeky but it really works for me!!

Young women

navigating

a parents' moment

A discussion around the lunch table at work recently caught my attention. A sports-loving basketball-playing colleague was talking about being a teenager when Nike brought out their first “Air Jordan” shoes and mentioning how he pressured his parents to buy a pair ...

Fast forward to today, when a really normal discussion between a child and parent takes the form of “... if I don't have Instagram (or any other important item) my life is over!”

Something we can forget in the intensity of the discussion is the “other” world that is both real and hidden. Honestly, there are probably still things we won't talk to our parents about – this world is as real for us as our teens. As many parents express, it feels like constantly holding a line in a battle – social media, dating, standards ... and sometimes holding the line becomes easier if we can understand the impact of the other world and respond with kindness, openness and acceptance as we navigate the turbulence and search for useful answers!
